The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has written the following warning to future income taxpayers:—

TREASURY DEFARTERIT, OFFICE OF INTERNAL!

REVESSER, WA HISTORY, APPEL 10, 1865.

Sim—As I find a large number of cases of fraudment evasion of the internal revenue arising in your sty, most of which, after detection and exposure, have, at the solicitation of the delinquent parties, b on compromised or such terms as I deemed it eligible to accept, I consider it proper to apprise you that I propose, within a short time, to change the course hitterlo pursued, and, instead of sottling with offenders who have deliberately violated the law, to send them to the courts to receive the full measure of punishment prescribed for their offens a. While the system of internal revenue was new and many perrons were ignorant of its provisions, it was, in any opinion, unwise to exact with rigor the penalties serveded for violation of law, as much molecules and forbaran e as were consistent with a due regard to general interest of the acts of Centress seemed to be the shvious policy of the government.

Without, therefore, is any case authorizing on the part of the government an other of compromise with delinguents, I have been willing to listen to terms when proposed by them, and have generally accepted such as round sufficient to protect the revenue and to constitute a proper example and warring to ill-disposed persons, for instante, penaltits to the amount of five, ten fifteen as young sufficient to protect the revenue and to constitute a proper example and warring to lift-disposed persons, for instante, penaltits to the amount of five, ten fifteen as young sufficient to protect the revenue and to constitute a proper example and warring to lift-disposed persons, for instante, penaltits to the amount of five, ten fifteen as young sufficient to protect the revenue and to constitute a proper example and warring to lift-disposed persons, for instante, penaltits to the amount of five, ten fifteen as young sufficient the product of th

In very aggravated cases I have refused to accept any to proceed the cases arising in their districts, civilly and agiminally, to the extent authorized by law.

The irands brought to our knowledge are so num-rous and many of them so surprising that I know no better way to suppress the growing disposition to practice them than by the exposure of public trial and by imposition of the fin appendice and forfeither provid of by law. Very respectively, yours.

Owners or Intrastat Revenue,

Washington, April 11, 1865.

Sin—I deem it proper in view of the p inding assessment of the income tax to call your especial attention to those changes in the one hundred and axteenth and one hundred and seventeenth section of the Revenue law which relate to the tax upon income derived from hear derived from the source, upon which a tax had been paid directly to the office, was deducted from the gross income of the taxpayer, while by the act of March a 1866, it is provided that, in accomming the income of any person liable to an income tax, the amount releved from institutions whose officers as required by law, withhold a per centum of the dividends made by such institutions, and pay the same to the Comme some of Internal Revenue, or other officer authorized to receive the same, shall be included; and the amount so withhold shall be deducted from the two which otherwise would be assessed upon such person.

Although sections one hardwell and twenty and one hundred and twenty two clearly contemplate that the government shall revelve five per cent of the whole amount paid out by any of the companies enumerated on account of dividends or interest upon bonds, it has been contended by some companies that, as they were nevely authorized and not required to wishhold the tax from each dividends or interest, it was competend for them to pay the tax and charge the same to their expense account, and make the payment to the stockholder or bond-holder irre of tax. The result of this construction is to give the government five dollars for every hundred dollars paid to the stockholder or bond-holder irre of tax. The result of this construction is to give the government five dollars for every ninety five dellars thus paid.

This view has been inserted upon by were componies, and they have consequently refused to withhold the tax from their dividends or interest, it was competent for these dol

Where any company has thus refused to withhold the tax from as dividends, it is described the provision quot d Where any company has thus refused to withhold the tax from its dividends, it is clear that the provision quot descent on section one handred and sixteen has no application, and you will therefore be particular to inquire as to this point whenever any taxpayer claims a deduction from his income tax upon this account. If it appears that the tax has not been withheld the deduction should

It should be borne in mind, however, that it has been the practice with some companies to declare their dividends nominally free of tax, while in results the tax has been withheld and fully paid to this office—that is to say, it the stockholder has received ninety and declars and the government five declars, or if the stockholder has received one hundred deltars and the government five deflars and twenty as cents, the tax has been practically withheld, whatever name may have been given to the transaction. If, on the other hand, the stockholder has received one hundred deltars and the government is three five declars, the tax has not been withheld, and no deduction should be allowed. The same principles will apply to the cake of dividends paid prior to the passage of the act of June 30, 1803.

If you are unable to acceptable the manner is which payment has been made by any institution to any of its stockholders register in your dearful, you can their full information by communicating with the office Very respectfully, JOSEPH J.
